

MEETING THE PROJECT MANAGEMENT CHALLENGE

2004

Biography

Carolyn Stevens

Deputy Manager, Program Business Management Division
Business Operations & Human Resources Directorate & Office of the CFO
NASA JPL

Carolyn Stevens is currently the Deputy Manager of the Program Business Management Division in the Business Operations and Human Resources Directorate and Office of the CFO at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. Over the past 25 years at JPL, she held business management/leadership positions in the Engineering and Science Directorate, the Telecommunications and Mission Operations Directorate and the Technology and Applications Programs Directorate. In addition to her primary responsibilities, she is currently providing leadership for several institutional initiatives, including a system to fully integrate all facets of project business planning, assessment and reporting. She is also supporting JPL's enhanced cost management initiatives, including the implementation of an institutional earned value management capability.

Carolyn earned a B.S. in Business Administration and Management from the University of Redlands, Redlands, California, and has been awarded NASA's Exceptional Service Medal and the JPL Award for Excellence for Exceptional Leadership.

NASA Project Management Conference